This newly completed addition creates a stunning entrance for Mikado Baptist Church with a community-minded and ever-growing congregation. The addition for the conservative church organized over 100 years ago and originally located on Mikado Avenue in Macon, Georgia is the culmination of years of work with the goal to reach more people.

The rigid-frame clearspan addition connects the existing sanctuary and auditorium to new expanded space including baptismal facilities and needed small group classrooms. The finishes include a combination of EIFS, stone, and glass with a corner conventional tower all enhancing the modern look. The entire large addition is covered by a high performing Kirby SS360 roof.
